71 And, but, or, because, so

I can surf and windsurf, but I can't water-ski.
Do you prefer pop music or classical music?
I can't buy a car because I haven't got enough money.
I haven't got enough money, so I can't buy a car.

■ And, but, or

We use and, but and or to join words or parts of a sentence:

■ I like tea and coffee.
I speak Spanish and Italian.
I can sing and play the guitar.

■ I like tea, but I don't like coffee.
I speak Spanish, but I don't speak Italian.
I can't sing, but I can play the guitar.

■ Would you like tea or coffee?
I don't speak Spanish or Italian.
I can't sing or play the guitar.

■ Because, so

■ because + the reason

I can't play tennis because my racket is broken.
We're going shopping because we haven't got any food.
Mark was late for school because he missed his bus.

■ so + the result

My racket is broken, so I can't play tennis.
We haven't got any food, so we're going shopping.
Mark missed his bus, so he was late for school.
